ABSTRACT

The directory lists services for deaf-blind children in the Southwestern Region, including such services as associations and foundations, child care services, diagnosis and evaluation, educational programs, financial assistance, information and referral, newsletters and periodicals, recreational services, rehabilitation services, and speech and hearing. Provided for each service are program name, contact person, and a brief summary of services available. Services are listed first by geographical location, then by type of service, and finally under an alphabetized list of cities. (DLS)

PREFACE

"...water, water everywhere..." The shipwrecked sailor's lament has great meaning and relevance today for us in the area of the deaf-blind. With a plethora of services to be provided by existing agencies, many service agencies, such as the Regional Deaf-Blind Centers, were figuratively left adrift in a sea of services and naively were unable to locate agencies and institutions that provide services to deaf-blind children.

In the formative years of the Regional Deaf-Blind Centers the lack of personnel prevented us from searching out and identifying those agencies which could have alleviated anxieties for both parents and professionals in providing peripheral and supplemental services to the deaf-blind population. Since we have been able to add graduate student assistants, interns, and additional permanent qualified staff to our Regional Center, we are able to produce much needed work in fields that required dogged and intensive searching.

One area was to determine and identify those agencies that have a pertinence in providing services to seriously multiply handicapped and deaf-blind youngsters and their parents. This publication is the result of a year's work by a graduate student assistant hired by the Regional Deaf-Blind Center to work in identifying agencies and services within the Southwest Region.

Since service agencies come and go at the whim of funding being available, the reader may find that some of the agencies listed may be defunct and that others have been absorbed by larger agencies in order to conserve funds, staff, and energies to provide more services to all handicapped children.

We hope to be able to update this directory annually. We ask the reader identifying an agency that we have omitted to please alert us to that fact.

William A. Blea
Director

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of the Directory of Services for Deaf-Blind Children in the Southwestern Region is to serve as a resource tool for professionals and parents in the Southwest region. Hopefully information presented will create a greater understanding and use of the various services available to deaf-blind persons and their families.

While efforts were made to make this Directory comprehensive in scope, we realize there may be omissions. Inclusion or omission does not imply endorsement or disapproval of any agency by the Southwestern Region Deaf-Blind Center. We welcome any additions so that they may be included in later revisions. Blank forms are appended to facilitate submission of additional material.

An overview of services offered by each agency is provided; however, since services change over time, we recommend contacting agencies directly for specific and current information.

Services are listed first by geographical location, then by type of service, and finally under an alphabetized list of cities. For example, if you are living in the state of California and interested in locating respite services,you would (1) locate the California section; (2) turn to the listing for respite care; and (3) scan the alphabetized list of cities to locate services offered in your city or neighboring area.

It is important to note that all states and islands vary in their level of community resource development. Because of these differences not all areas will offer the same categories of services.

We would like to offer special thanks to all the people who assisted in the development of this Directory.
